

Maine Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics Association
Sponsorship Policy

Policy Statement

The Maine Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (MAND) is committed to providing qualified speakers on food and nutrition issues for professional and community groups; conducting conferences to promote continuing education of its membership and allied health professionals; and functioning as a reliable nutrition information resource for the public. MAND strives to communicate healthful eating messages to the public that emphasize the position of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. The continuing value of MAND's name depends on its reputation for integrity.

MAND is also committed to controlling costs and thus may seek out sponsorship from companies, organizations, and/or individuals to assist in offsetting the cost of our work. Content of education sessions, programming and publications shall be not be driven by sponsorship. MAND appreciates the value of sponsorship in its mission to promote health for the citizens of Maine. MAND accepts offers for sponsorship that are in keeping with MAND's mission, vision and values statements.

MAND does not endorse any brand, company, product or service. All sponsors and sources of funding will be disclosed to attendees of events and readers of publications.
